But there are more than economic reasons to come to Manitoba. If you enjoy the great outdoors, Manitoba is a four season playground, possessing some of the country's most beautifully pristine wilderness. Name your pleasure – canoeing, hiking, fishing, snowmobiling, cross country skiing, etc. – you'll find some of the best Canada has to offer right here in Manitoba.

If it's art and culture you seek, Manitoba boasts an extremely vibrant and diverse arts scene. Here you'll find world-class ballet, theatre, opera and symphony orchestra. For sports fans, Manitoba offers professional football, hockey and baseball, to name just a few diversions.

Manitoba is also home to a lively and passionate francophone culture, located in more than two dozen communities in the province, but centred around St. Boniface, one of the largest francophone communities outside of Quebec.
